KeliComm Headshots moving to Northeast Arts District

Minneapolis, St. Paul, Minn. – February 8, 2016 – KeliComm Headshots announced today that it is moving its primary headshot photography studio to the historic Arts District in Northeast Minneapolis.

On March 8, KeliComm Headshots will take possession of their newly renovated studio space at the Highlight Center located at 807 Broadway Northeast, just two miles from downtown Minneapolis. This historic building is the former Minneapolis Public School Headquarters, which now reflects “the artistic feel of its art-loving neighbors in Northeast Minneapolis,” quoting an article in the Minneapolis Star Tribune.

“We are so excited to be moving into this beautifully renovated historic center,” says Jen Kelly, KeliComm President and principal photographer. “Not only is our studio space larger, but we have the added benefit of amenities like ample visitor parking, natural light, common areas and the adjacent Able Seedhouse and Brewery.”

The KeliComm Headshots studio at Highlight Center includes a comfortable and beautifully appointed reception area for clients, private changing room and a large shooting area with reclaimed hardwood floors and natural light.

Headshots are a necessary and important tool for everyone—whether a corporate professional, small business owner or solo-preneur as well as actors/performing artists. Visual marketing and authentic brands are integral to being successful in the digital world. According to Forbes, your LinkedIn profile is seven times more likely to be viewed if you have a profile picture. A professional LinkedIn profile picture is a must for any business professional.

Working with KeliComm Headshots ensures that your professional headshot captures your brand and authenticity. Every client receives brand advice prior to their headshot session about wardrobe, accessories, color and tips to prepare for their headshot experience. Clients view and choose images in real time during the session, helping create the best final images for their professional portfolio.
